»»» New website for project offices

We are pleased to announce that in order to meet your expectations, a new project website www.projekty.ug.edu.pl has been launched, where information about open competitions and major events will be available and continuously updated. The website will also provide information on the various stages of project management (application, implementation, sustainability), current competitions, ongoing projects, upcoming events.

The website also includes invitations to cooperate in interdisciplinary projects and materials for download (e.g. results of studies, analyses and diagnoses on the situation in a given sector, target group or area, which can be used in project applications).

The website will soon also be available in English.

»»» Ministry of Science and Higher Education: Suspension of consideration of applications in the 'National Program for the Development of the Humanities, 'Students' Innovation-Creating Scientific Circles' and 'Pearls of Science II'.

The Ministry of Science and Higher Education has decided to suspend the processing of applications for funding under three programs:

- National Program for the Development of the Humanities

»»» NCBiR: 'Project Consortium in Horizon Europe (HE)' training, February 21, 2024

We would like to invite you to participate in a training course on project consortium building skills under the Horizon Europe (HE) Framework Program. This is a key element in the process of preparing a grant application. It is worth paying attention to the appropriate selection of partners in accordance with the provisions of the competition documentation, which definitely affects the chances of success of the project.

At the training, which will take place on February 21, 2024 from 10:00-13:30, you will learn how to effectively build a project consortium.

Registration for the training and additional information is available at: link.

»»» NCN: Information meetings and online training for applicants in 2024

We present the calendar of online information meetings to be conducted by NCN discipline coordinators in 2024. The meetings are intended for researchers and doctoral students wishing to submit applications in NCN grant competitions.

In 2024, the briefings are planned in a modular format. One topic will be discussed during each webinar.

More information and registration links can be found on the NCN website in the applicant workshops section: NCN Workshops - 2024.
